UNITED STATES

The United States confirms its position as a global e-commerce powerhouse

With over 80 million active online shoppers and nearly $1.2 trillion in annual e-commerce sales, the US remains one of the most mature and competitive markets worldwide. While mobile shopping continues to dominate, value for money and delivery transparency are increasingly shaping expectations. American consumers demand convenience, fast and reliable service, and seamless tracking – making it essential for cross-border retailers to deliver on clarity, performance and trust.

High-value purchases continue to grow among US cross-border shoppers

The average basket value keeps increasing, with over half of cross-border purchases now exceeding 55 dollars. Lower-value orders continue to decline, confirming a shift toward more substantial transactions.

Mid-weight parcels remain dominant in US cross-border orders

Packages between 0.6 and 2 kg remain the most common weight for cross-border shipments. However, ultra-light parcels under 0.5 kg are gaining ground again, suggesting a shift toward smaller, more frequent online orders.

Mobile remains dominant, desktop continues to decline

Smartphones remain the leading device for cross-border purchases among US shoppers, while laptops gain slight ground. Desktop usage continues its decline, and tablets hold stable at a modest share.

Home delivery remains the top preference for US online shoppers

Home delivery, whether at the door or in the mailbox, continues to dominate cross-border preferences. While safe places and post offices remain common alternatives, parcel lockers are growing steadily and now complete the top five.

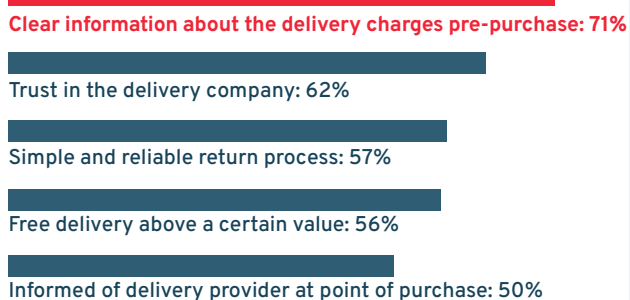

Landmark Global can deliver your shipments directly to your American customers' doorstep or their selected pick-up location of their choice. End-to-end tracking comes with every delivery.

Transparency and trust continue to shape US delivery expectations

Clarity on delivery charges remains the top concern for US shoppers. Trust in the delivery provider and easy returns also rank high, while being informed at checkout gains importance this year.

85% of Americans follow their parcel via tracking notifications

Amazon is the most used in the US, Walmart and eBay way behind

Amazon holds on to its number one ranking and stays firmly on the rise. Walmart sees a lower market share in 2023 but maintains its second position.

Key Takeaways | How to score in the US as a retailer

- ✓ Provide a seamless mobile shopping experience, as smartphones remain the preferred device for most US consumers.
- ✓ Be transparent about delivery charges and offer a clear, reliable return process.
- ✓ Build trust by partnering with dependable delivery providers and offering full tracking visibility.
- ✓ Propose free delivery above a certain value to encourage higher basket sizes.
- ✓ Focus on offering quality products in popular categories like clothing, beauty and everyday essentials.
